

Phenomenal
Progress Made in Three Months
at Hog Island

Hog Island, as it appears today, looking East from the Main Wharf. The Yard's Fifty Shipways, Which Will Occupy About One Mile of the Waterfront, Are Being Constructed in Five Groups of Ten Each

Until the Middle of Last September Hog Island Was Waste Land, Tenanted Only by Pigs. At That Time Work of Clearing Away the Underbrush and Building Roads Was Begun

Twenty-five Barracks, Similar to Those in the Army Cantonments, Are Nearing Completion and Will House More Than 2000 Men

Immense Piles of Lumber and Other Materials for the Multitude of Buildings and the Shipways Fill the Landscape. Fully Eighty-six Miles of Railroad Tracks Are Being Built in All Sections of the Yard

The Vital Matter of Sanitation Has Come in for the Closest Attention on the Part of the Hog Island Authorities. Miles of Sewers and Water Mains Have Been Laid

Two of the Shipways in Course of Construction at Hog Island. With the Completion of the Fifty Ways Next March, the Work of Turning Out 120 Ships in Twenty-two Months Will Begin

One of the Greatest Problems at the Hog Island Plant Is That of Providing Adequate Means for Transporting Men and Materials. When Work on the Ships Begin Fully Ten Miles of Streets Will Have Been Built
